Potential Risks and Complications:

- Redness, swelling, oozing, and crusting for several days (ablative) or 1–3 days (non-ablative); redness can persist for weeks
 - Pain or burning during healing
- Infection — bacterial, viral (cold sore flare), or fungal
- Hyperpigmentation — darkening, common in tanned or darker skin, usually fading over months
- Hypopigmentation — lightening that can be permanent, especially with deep ablative treatment
 - , milia, or acne flare- Prolonged redness
 - , including textured or thickened scars (rare)- Scarring
 - Eye injury without protective eyewear
- Lines of demarcation between treated and untreated skin

Strict sun avoidance and SPF 30+ for 4 weeks before and 8 weeks after is essential. Ablative resurfacing requires a wound-care routine for 5–10 days and time off work.

I understand the expected healing process, that I must follow the wound-care and sun-protection instructions exactly, and that healing may take longer than described.

I understand the downtime and wound care: _____

I understand that temporary or permanent skin lightening or darkening, prolonged redness, and scarring are possible, particularly with recent sun exposure, isotretinoin, or a history of pigmentation.

I understand pigment changes and scarring are possible: _____
