Risks & Expectations

Important Expectations:

- Complete removal is NOT guaranteed — some ink and ghosting may remain
- Multiple sessions are required (typically 6-12+), spaced 6-8 weeks apart
- Black and dark blue inks respond best; green, yellow, and white are hardest to remove
- Older and amateur tattoos typically fade faster
- Skin may never return to its exact pre-tattoo appearance

Potential Risks:

- Pain during treatment (often described as rubber band snapping)
- Blistering, scabbing, and crusting (normal healing)
- Swelling and redness for several days
- Hypopigmentation (lightening of skin) or hyperpigmentation (darkening)
- Scarring (raised or textured skin)
- Infection if aftercare not followed
- Incomplete removal or ink oxidation (color change)

Aftercare:

- Apply prescribed ointment and keep bandaged for 24-48 hours
- Keep area clean and dry; do not submerge in water for 2 weeks
- Do not pick blisters or scabs
- Apply SPF 30+ once healed
- Avoid exercise and sweating for 48 hours

I understand that complete tattoo removal is not guaranteed, multiple sessions are required, and skin may not return to its pre-tattoo appearance.
